BOOT HILL DISTILLERY VODKA

All of Boot Hill Distillery's vodka is 100 percent wheat, grown on the wind-whipped plains of western Kansas by our three owners. Our vodka is pot-distilled before being run through a custom column set-up, giving it a fuller mouthfeel than you expect in vodka. Exceedingly smooth and sweet with a wholly unique character, our vodka is much like western Kansas – simultaneously wild and civilized.

NOSE: Sweet and spicy that gives way to dense, creamy scents.

NEAT: Malty and soft right up front, with a blast of black pepper heat right in the middle. Quickly disappears off the palate.

ON THE ROCKS: Initial cream flavors deepen, with soft, malty flavors spreading across the entire mouth. Peppery notes linger and disappear into sweet.

Boot Hill Distillery is owned by three western Kansas farmers. These multi-generation farms produce every single grain that Boot Hill Distillery uses to craft our world-class spirits. Our spirits are truly “soil to sip.” We grow, mill, mash, ferment, distill, and bottle 100% of our products, so from the moment the seed goes into the soil to the moment you pour our spirits into your glass, we’ve had full control. Combining our years of farming expertise with an obsessive eye for quality distillation, we ensure that every single bottle that you purchase from Boot Hill Distillery is among the highest-quality products available in the world.

Dodge City's legacy was built on the ashes of the campfire and the footprints of a bar, and we're proud to be continuing that legacy here at Boot Hill Distillery.
